Outreach Clinics offer families a full service opportunity to begin biomedical interventions by providing an on-site physician, an experienced pediatric phlebotomist, and comprehensive biological testing panels at discounted prices. In accordance with the comprehensive approach, a special panel of tests has been specifically designed to detect the most common imbalances associated with nutritional deficiencies, immune issues, digestive disorders, metabolic imbalances, allergies, infectious conditions, and issues associated with oxidative stress. Performing multiple tests increases the chances of identifying all areas likely to contribute to symptoms at hand and knowing the full scope of the patient's metabolic state will assist the physician to better design a treatment plan that is specific to the patient's needs. Restoring balance to all functions of the body produces a synergy that cannot be achieved by addressing abnormalities individually. The physician will address any concerns about the relevance of specific tests.
